Dear Colleagues and Friends!

Even though European citizens have good access to health services compared with many other countries, health care is not evenly distributed. The resources for health services are limited. The demand for services may even be increasing, e.g. due to an ageing population, increased immigration and due to improved possibilities of offering treatment, which can be costly. Questions regarding priority within health care are not new, but the questions are redundant and an on-going discussion is needed.
